To Whom It May Concern:

As Executive Director of Okaloosa AIDS Support and Informational Services, Inc. (OASIS), it is with a great amount of confidence and enthusiasm that I recommend Cathy Robinson-Pickett as an excellent presenter. Cathy has spoken many times at our Positive Living HIV Prevention and Treatment Conference in Ft. Walton Beach, Florida. She has consistently been rated as one of our top three presenters. Cathy is natural at relating to people on a personal and profound level. While her life story is compelling, it is the way in which she is able to share it that makes her presentation so incredible. The fact that she can come away from so many tragic and overwhelming events in her life and remain so optimistic is a true testament to her character. She processes a contagious hope that often lies buried in the audience with whom she is sharing. Cathy can help anyone to see the hope and embrace the future. She is about strength and commitment.

I highly recommend her to any group who wants to reach out and touch an audience in a powerful way. Cathy has a gift that keeps on giving and she can provide anyone with a road map to self fulfillment. She instills a will in those who listen to her. You cannot walk away unmoved by this courageous mother's story... She is a postcard of compassionate understanding and guidance. The courage and strength she presents is contagious. I have had an opportunity to meet many people who will testify how their lives were improved by listening and interacting with this amazing woman. If I sound like a cheerleader, it is because I am. I encourage anyone who is considering a presentation from Cathy Robinson-Pickett to act swiftly in extending an invitation. There is always room for another cheerleader on the squad.

Sincerely,

Butch McKay
